This software provides a complete package to be used by non-coders who can see and design in 3D, but do not want to deal with the technical challenges of creating and rendering real-time complex 3D models. 3D model builders such as Sketchup and Blender use parametric NURBS and N-gon surface models that define all surface points in a concise model. Softimage uses these model data to create surface, normal, and specular texture maps for the models. These maps are then rendered, baked and baked interactively into the scene. Then the model can be viewed and animated in a 3D workbench, where the animations can be manipulated, such as camera rotation or control of lighting and materials. The workflow is simple. The output of the photorealistic texturing is a dynamic texture map that can be applied by the application or by other software, such as Apple Quicksilver. The model is then rendered in real-time, giving movie quality rendering of the meshes and physically realistic lighting. In addition to soft shadows and other lighting effects. Adding to the realism of the final scene, the application includes multiple lighting and material color options to create virtually infinite combinations.
