Based on the original Elden Ring fantasy novel series by the author (The Elden Ring) and developed by Debran, "The Elden Ring: The Cure for the Blood Madness" has been released on PlayStation 4 and will launch for PC and other platforms in 2019. The most acclaimed fantasy action RPG in recent years with amazing visuals and audio quality, "The Elden Ring: The Cure for the Blood Madness" drew wide critical acclaim and is also number one in the Japanese sales charts. As the protagonist of "The Elden Ring," you play Tarnished, a sword dueling mage who searches for clues to the mystical past. "THE ELDEN RING: The Cure for the Blood Madness" introduced a "Realsim" (Reality Simulation) style online game (asynchronous online), and there are 8 playable characters in addition to the protagonist. A mature action RPG similar to "Dragon's Dogma" that introduces a new battle system and online features. When you enter the online game, the protagonist Tarnished and 5 randomly-selected pre-registered characters known as "Couriers" join you. You and your teammates can go on quests together in the same world and explore a vast open world. Not only can you play this action-RPG together with other players, but you can also hang out in the realm of the Elden Ring's most powerful mage, Kadabroth, and enjoy the depth of the game world. When the "Courier" of another player in the online world dies, your party will be joined by that player's "Courier" character. The dead "Courier" character will also have an appearance of a deceased NPC, as well as a clear "Name," and you can even call out to them using the chat function. You can rest at inns and buy items you can only use in the online world from the in-game menu. And while resting, you can interact with the NPCs and listen

The Benefits of Facial Cleansing for Hair Removal

The Benefits of Facial Cleansing for Hair Removal Are you concerned about unwanted hair on your body? Maybe you're guilty of a little multi-day hair removal marathon or you've got the occasional hair follicle problem. If you're looking to go the natural route, this post about The Benefits of Facial Cleansing for Hair Removal is for you. What's the best way to remove unwanted hair from your body? By far, the best and safest method is to go to the bathroom with a shower cap on your head. Make sure you run the water in the shower and stick your head in the stream of hot water to loosen and remove the hair. A trick I learned from one of my co-workers is to run my fingers through the hair first to help get it loose before scrubbing it off. Are you also concerned about getting some unwanted hair on your face? Don't worry, I've got your back. Firstly, it's important to remember that hair doesn't just grow on your head! Your face is just as susceptible to hair growth. If you've got face hair - hair that grows from the roots of the hair follicles in your body - then you've got hair on your face! I'm sure you've experienced a case of this in the past. Maybe you noticed your eyebrows growing a little thicker or your eyelashes thinning. That's what I was faced with this past week. It took me several days to finally realize what was going on because my face has been covered in hair up until now. I have a pretty hairy bottom lip (you can't see it in the photos, but I'm pretty sure you can see the little white dots). I've been brushing and brushing and brushing, but I wasn't making any progress. Then I got into my bathroom and, while I was washing my face, I noticed that I wasn't really seeing any facial hair I wanted to take away. Something was definitely wrong. Then I realized why! It turns out that my face is covered with a lot
